

Case Supervision

Develop your mediation skills, build your confidence, and sharpen your insight as a mediator

Mediation work can be emotionally draining and some cases can test your understanding of the mediator role, identifying gaps in your skills and knowledge.

Case Supervision is a structured way of getting consultative support, allowing you to develop your skills beyond what you learned in your training, and helping to ensure that you are mediating effectively, professionally, and safely.

Our professional supervisors are qualified and experienced mediators, and course content can include:

- Group discussion on presented cases
- Ethical and professional considerations: working safely
- Input on specialist topics from the supervisor
